BICC Workshop during the Deutsche Welle Global Media Forum, Bonn (22 June 2010)/

BICC Workshop beim Deutsche Welle Global Media Forum, Bonn (22. Juni 2010)

***

With more than 50 events, the Deutsche Welle Global Media Forum continued its annual successful international conference in 2010 from 21 to 23 June 2010 under the title “The Heat is on – Climate Change and the Media.” BICC contributed to this international conference on 22 June 2010, with the workshop “Environmental migration and conflict.”

The BICC workshop sought to disaggregate the nexus between climate change-induced migration and the scope for conflict in receiving areas by identifying and assessing the impact of these mitigating factors. Following a review of previous research and conceptualizations, the panelists Fabrice Renaud, Head Environmental Vulnerability and Energy Security Section UNU-EHS, Dennis Tänzler, Senior Project Manager Adelphi Research, Astrid Ziebarth, Program Officer GMF Berlin Office, Jerry Sommer, journalist and BICC Research Associate, and Andrea Warnecke, Senior Researcher at BICC, debated especially focused on the role and scope of action by relevant stakeholders—governments, NGOs, and the media—in receiving areas.
